OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, in a statement today said removal of a large number of price controls, announced yesterday by Finance Minister Abbott, would lead to "further wage demands by workers and to industrial unrest." ## At Conference Agree On Plan For Reich Rule

By R. H. SHACKFORD
MOSCOW, April 2 (BUP)—The council of foreign ministers today agreed in principle to the necessity of creating provisional German governments as soon as possible and to accept proposals for a special committee for an attempt to draft a directive.

THE AGREEMENT was made after all four ministers approved British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin's statement that establishment of a provisional government was contingent upon economic unity of Germany—an issue the ministers passed over temporarily after failure to break a deadlock over reparations.

At the end of the meeting Bevin proposed sending the question to a special co-ordinating committee because he said today's debate had revealed such "a large area of agreement" on the question despite difference in minor detail.

Truman Gets Power To Break Strike

New Decontrol Move Now Effective

Ottawa Lifts Price Pegs On Wide Range of Goods

By George Kitchen

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—The government Tuesday lifted the price lid on roughly one-third of the goods and services still under control and expressed the hope that the move would bring prices "smoothly to the levels which now are appropriate."

AS THE HOUSE was debating the main bill to continue wartime controls, Finance Minister Abbott announced to the Commons the fourth major step in the government's decontrol program, a step which extensively slims the controlled list.

This latest move in the direction of full decontrol, the fourth over the last year, becomes effective Wednesday.

In general, it removes these goods from the list of goods and services still under price ceilings:

1. All motor vehicles, all soft drinks, all coal, coke, charcoal and all footwear. Leather itself, as well as hides, remain under control.
2. Foods such as turkey, ducks and geese in live or dressed form, certain non-standard kinds of sausage and some canned and cooked meats.
3. All types of candy and confectionery and cocoa beans and their derivatives and beverage preparations made from cocoa.
4. Wools in all its forms, whether in yarn, fabric or clothing.
5. Household equipment such as cooking ranges, refrigerators of all kinds, domestic washing machines, domestic sewing machines and plumbing and sanitary equipment.
6. All chemicals and plastics, and products in the paper and paper products field, many containers and packing materials and a lengthy list of construction products.

MR. ABBOTT said the list of goods and services which remained under control covered many

May Ease Eviction Control

10 Pct. Rentals Boost Expected Next Month

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—Informed sources speculated today that easing of rental and eviction controls—predicted by Finance Minister Abbott yesterday—may boost rents 10 per cent next month.

THESE SOURCES pointed to the minister's statement in Commons in which he said "some amelioration" in the regulations would be announced "very shortly."

It was also indicated a 10-per-cent increase was a likely figure, although other reports have placed the hike anywhere from five to 15 per cent.

In his statement yesterday, made during the announcement of certain price ceiling removals, Mr. Abbott said:

"In the question of shelter, acute difficulties remain so that rental and eviction controls must be continued. Some amelioration in the current regulations has been under active consideration by the government for some time, however, and I hope very shortly to make an announcement of what changes are considered feasible while still giving tenants the necessary protection under existing conditions of shortage of dwelling space."

IT IS EXPECTED some easing in the eviction controls also may be expected.

Plan Meeting On Coal Strike

GLACE BAY, N.S., April 2 (CP)—The announcement of a new meeting between union and operators to discuss the six-week-old Maritime coal walkout left an air of expectancy in the strike-bound Cape Breton collieries today but drew little comment from leaders of the striking United Mine Workers (CCL).

ONLY DETAILS of the proposed conference so far made public were contained in a statement in the provincial legislature at Halifax yesterday by Labor Minister L. D. Currie.

He said the meeting had been arranged to take place in Montreal Sunday between John Owens, UMW international board member, and Arthur Cross, president of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, largest Maritime coal operator.

Neckties Immoral

MONTREAL, April 2 (CP)—A shipment of men's neckties, considered by the court to be too immoral for Montreal because they bore painted replicas of nude women, is to be returned to the distributors—in Toronto.

There are 26 miles of road involved and Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works announced on Wednesday that the contract had been awarded to the Western Construction Company Ltd. of Edmonton for $218,689.

He also announced that work is in progress on the highway cut-off from Flatbush to Smith.

Decontrol Highlights

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—Highlights of the major price decontrol announcement made in the Commons yesterday by Finance Minister Abbott:

Approximately one third of controlled goods and services lifted from under price ceilings, effective Wednesday.

All motor vehicles, all coal, coke and charcoal and fuelwood and all footwear decontrolled.

Household equipment such as stoves, electrical and gas, refrigerators of all kinds and washing and sewing machines and plumbing and sanitary equipment decontrolled.

Price ceilings lifted on such foods as turkey, ducks and geese in live or dressed form, some canned and cooked meats, shell and frozen or powdered eggs, soft drinks and a range of canned goods.

Selective price ceiling decontrol on a range of clothing not made from leather, cotton or rayon; woolsens decontrolled.

All chemicals and plastics, products in the paper and paper products field and a wide range of building materials decontrolled.

The lists of goods and services remaining under control cover many of the basic necessities of life in food, clothing and shelter.

Mr. Abbott said he would not be a party at this time to the complete decontrol as "advocated in some quarters" which would have severe consequences.

Acute difficulties remain in the rental field where ceilings are being held.

Mr. Abbott said the government hoped shortly to announce some changes in rental regulations that are considered feasible while still giving tenants the necessary protection.

Justice Minister Lacey estimated price control had saved Canadian consumers approximately $2,500,000,000 a year during the period from 1942 to 1945.

Administration of price control during 1942-46 cost the government $290,000,000.

After June 30

Newsprint Supply To Get Tighter

By VICTOR MACKIE
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, Ont., April 2—Canadian newspaper publishers struggling to get by on the restricted wartime quotas of newsprint available from Canadian mills, may find the supply situation becoming worse instead of better after June 30, according to supply officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board here.

ON JUNE 30, the agreement between the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and the newsprint manufacturers under which Canada was guaranteed seven per cent of delivered production and the United States 93 per cent, expires. After that date, there will be no government stipulations on the quantity or price of newsprint that is to be sold in Canada or exported out of Canada to the United States and other countries.

ALBERTA newspapers have suffered more from the newsprint shortage than the newspapers of any other province in Canada. Edmonton newspapers pay the highest delivered price for newsprint of any city in Canada or the United States.

Byrd, D. Va., that the United States go before the United Nations and seek an absolute showdown with Russia on the question of aid to Greece and Turkey. He would challenge the Soviet to block the program with her security council veto and then seek to throw Russia out of the United Nations if she voted against the American stop-Communism plan.

Uncertain Greece moved slowly ahead under her new king, Paul I, brother of George II who suddenly died yesterday. There was no immediate indication that any democratization of the Greek regime was in prospect and rebel Greek elements made no move to seize on the change in the monarchy as a signal for revolt.

THE MOST spectacular development in the foreign policy debate was Byrd's proposal which came as a direct challenge to Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R. Mich., who has proposed giving the United Nations a limited veto over the American plan. Byrd attacked Vandenberg's proposal as unrealistic and declared that it was time to halt what he called "appeasement at the council table."

Caucus Quarrel All Not Serene In Tory Ranks

By CHESTER BLOOM

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—Despite the oil of conciliation poured on the troubled waters of the Progressive Conservative party annual meeting by J. M. Macdonnell, MP (Muskoka-Ontario), and president of the Dominion association, ruffled feelings of the old guard caused bitter words at a caucus Tuesday of the parliamentary members.

The article in a well known bi-monthly Toronto periodical which denominated the old guard members as "lamentable dolls" was brought up by angry survivors of the 1940 and 1945 elections.

R. A. BELL, publicity director for the John Bracken leadership organization, was alleged by several in the caucus of having approved copies of the article. Some demands were voiced that Mr. Bell should be dismissed from the post if the accusation was proved true. But nothing happened. Mr. Bracken remains party leader, and his chief lieutenant, Mr. Macdonnell, is secure in the post of president of the national party.

Several of the old line Tory MPs who have been critical of Mr. Bracken's leadership of their party refused to discuss the subject of the quarrel in the caucus. They took the attitude that the majority must rule and they were prepared to swallow their defeat.

THE DRIVE against Mr. Bracken's leadership which is centred in Toronto, however, is far from ended. Some of the Toronto Tory members contend that except for their individual fight against continuance of wartime controls, the government would not have lasted as it did on Tuesday, to drop so many controls at once. The implication is that their leader did not give them the support they needed in their attack on controls.

Nationalist Planes Blamed For Attack

SHANGHAI, April 2 (AP)—Captain William Lee of the British tank landing ship Wanshan was seriously injured today when his ship was bombed and machine-gunned while unloading UNRRA supplies at the Chinese Communist port of Shinkwiao.

The planes were identified as belonging to the Chinese nationalist government in reports to UNRRA headquarters here.

Lee and two other injured men were transferred to the United States gunboat Wilkie and rushed to Tsingtao for medical attention.

THE PLANES, according to reports to UNRRA here, subjected the Wanshan to three attacks in which the captain, Chief Mate William D. Haining of Vancouver, and an unidentified Chinese quartermaster were injured.

Lee, the report said, suffered fractures of both legs and was "bleeding profusely" when transferred. Haining was wounded, not critically, by flying shrapnel and the Chinese quartermaster suffered a compound fracture of the left leg.

After the attacks the Wanshan put to sea and met the Wilkie, which had rushed to meet her in response to radio calls.

SHINKWIAO is about 60 miles southwest of Tsingtao where American naval craft are based. Haining is a Canadian citizen. His address was given as (979) Richard St., Vancouver. Capt. Lee's home is in England.

Ban On Liquor Advertising Off

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—Federal restrictions on liquor advertising no longer are in effect, a justice department spokesman said today.

The decontrol order took effect yesterday with an order-in-council revoking all federal controls except those contained in the government's "omnibus" bill and 15-odd separate measures before the Commons.

THE REPEAL was in line with an undertaking by Justice Minister Lacey some weeks ago to withdraw March 31 all wartime and transitional controls not provided for in the bills.

Controls covered by the bills—which would continue them until March 31, 1948—were extended to May 15 in order to give parliament time to debate them.

Lifting of the restrictions on newspaper liquor advertising in Alberta, in line with the above announcement from Ottawa, will be considered at a cabinet meeting Thursday, Premier Manning said Wednesday morning.

Food Protest

300,000 Ruhr Miners Plan One-Day Strike

By JAMES DEVLIN

ESSEN, Germany, April 2 (AP)—A one-day strike involving nearly 300,000 men in 171 Ruhr coal mines was ordered by trade union leaders today as a protest against food shortages. The walkout, set for tomorrow, will mean a loss of about 238,000 tons of sorely-needed coal.

THE DECISION was taken by an overwhelming vote of 30 mine union leaders after a three-hour session in the nearby coal mining town of Bochum, where 4,000 miners struck earlier in the day.

The output of coal in the Ruhr mines has been declining steadily since March 21 because of sporadic strikes and general unrest over failure of British and German administrators to fulfil promised food ration quotas.

The Bochum miners walked out as part of a general strike and demonstration in that city which apparently was intended to give moral support to the trade union conference.

DEMONSTRATIONS, following up similar protestations which began last week in the British zone of occupation, also were being held at Neuss and Wesel, but scheduled protests at Cologne and Muenchen-Gladbach failed to materialize.

Previous walkouts were at Dortmund, Hamborn and Duisburg.

Kid Glove Hides "Jack"

A kid glove loaded with an $3 mm shell wrapped in a hankie, and very much resembling a black-jack, alleged to have been found in the room of Walter Duskoitch, 9633 104 avenue, brought about a charge of being in possession of an offensive weapon against Duskoitch who appeared in city police court Wednesday morning.

Magistrate A. I. Miller granted a request for a remand until Thursday, and no plea was taken.

Detective Sergeant James Peterson said that acting on information received, he searched the accused's premises and found the weapon, Duskoitch's home is in White River, Ont.

Calls For End to Debate

Howe Urges House "Return to Sanity"

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Howe made a cold and factual appeal to the Commons last night for a "return to sanity" to end a debate which he said was contributing "nothing" to the interests of the country.

HE WAS CALLING upon opposition members to bring to an early halt a debate which has been gathering momentum on second reading of the much-criticized government "omnibus" bill for the continuation of wartime controls.

Speaking in the quiet tones of a business man, Mr. Howe said he made his appeal "urgently."

Canada's economy, he believed, was founded on a "sound" basis and the purpose of the bill was only to give the government a "reasonable" time in which to put into effect its gradually developing program.

For Education Students

Announce Regulations On 200 Scholarships

Regulations governing the award of two hundred scholarships, valued at $200 each, to be distributed annually by the department of education for faculty of education students, were announced Wednesday.

HON. R. EARL ANSLEY, had told the legislature during the session which prorogued Monday evening that the scholarships were being made available.

Wednesday's announcement from the office of Dr. W. W. Swift, deputy minister, indicates that the 200 scholarships are to be divided into two classifications. There are 175 for students enrolling in the one year program leading to junior elementary and intermediate school certificates. The remaining 25 will be given to students enrolling in the first year of the two-year course leading to senior elementary and intermediate certification.

AWARDS WILL be made on the basis of marks obtained but each applicant is to be expected to have full matriculation requirements. Special attention is paid to marks in English and social studies.

In the event that there are not 200 applicants for the scholarship, it is proposed that $100 scholarships be awarded to students who have a high school diploma but do not meet matriculation requirements.

Applicants must be British subjects, residents of Alberta and must be of such an age that they will be over 18 before they attain their certificates.

THEY MUST also sign an agreement to teach in Alberta for at least three years after completing the course.

The personality of the student enters the picture. Scholarships will not be awarded if the education faculty decides that for that reason or any other they are not "acceptable candidates for teaching."

Half of the scholarship will be paid at the end of October and the remainder early in January if the student is making satisfactory progress.

THE DEPARTMENT of education will continue to pay tuition fees of students enrolled in junior elementary and intermediate school courses.

High school principals and Grade 12 students are being circulated by the department with full details.

Dealers Surprised At Decontrol Order

Edmonton dealers were surprised by the decontrol order announced in the House of Commons on Tuesday.

The manager of one large farm produce concern, however, predicted that little difference would appear in turkey prices, due to a large carryover in both the United States and Canada. Should controls be lifted on all types of poultry he thought, the only increase would be in prices of hens. Younger chickens and all other poultry would remain stable in price.

Coal dealers may have an announcement within a day or two on their reaction to decontrol, C. A. Hyndman, Edmonton, of the coal producers association said.

It was not expected that much difference would be experienced in price or quantities of refrigerators or washing machines by dealers concerned. It was emphasized, however, that it was too early to make any accurate statements.

Can Eliminate Damage to Food

By means of insecticides developed by the science service of the Dominion department of agriculture, damage to food products stored in food warehouses in Western Canada can now be virtually eliminated, Dr. B. N. Smallman, head of the insect laboratory at Winnipeg, said here Wednesday.

DR. SMALLMAN, who will address a meeting of the Northern Alberta Millers Association in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday, said that during the past two years efforts at the science laboratory have been directed at processes that would gain control over the spider beetle, a small insect that infests food warehouses and works through bag coverings into stored foods.

The processes recommended include the use of the new fumigant DDT insecticide and a magnesium oxide.

THE HAVOC wrought by the spider beetle has been very costly to warehousemen but with the new insecticides developed it can be virtually eliminated, a 95 per cent control having been achieved in 75 food warehouses where experiments have been carried out, the scientist said.

The spider beetle has never been a serious menace in northern Alberta but has caused serious losses in other parts of Canada.

DETROIT, April 2 (CP)—A strike yesterday at the Hudson Motor Car Company here threw 14,000 workers into idleness. ## Helgoland Blast May Tell Secrets of Earth's Crust

HELGOLAND, April 2 (AP)—Demolition experts said today that when British experts touch off 3,500 tons of explosives April 18 to destroy German military installations on this island, the concussion probably will penetrate 100 miles into the earth and affect seismographs all over the world.

A British naval officer explained that on the appointed day a button pressed on a ship nine miles off shore will detonate a vast stockpile of explosives, including torpedoes, warheads, depth charges, belgite and TNT stored in an 8½-mile maze of tunnels.

Scientists, the officer said, hope to find out something about the composition of the earth's crust as a result of the explosion.

The blast—expected to be the biggest on record, excluding the atom bomb—will be preceded by a series of small explosions, set off by a clock mechanism to score away the thousands of birds which migrate to this area each spring.

One Vote in Four

Incomplete returns showed Monday night that 24,106 votes were polled in the Montreal-Cartier by-election, in 147 out of 152 polls. Of these the Labor-Progressive candidate received 6,410 votes, roughly one vote in four.

That riding has been rightly regarded as the pro-Soviet stronghold in Canada, for it elected in 1943, and re-elected in 1945, the only Labor-Progressive member.

That gentleman having gone to the penitentiary for his spy-ring activities, the election of a party successor to his seat would have been trumpeted across Canada as showing that these activities had popular approval and the prosecution of the spies had been condemned. Communists all over the Dominion would have hailed it as a sign that they were making headway in their plans to undermine parliamentary government. No doubt they would have called the matter to Moscow's attention, and put in a claim there for recognition as good and faithful servants.

Instead, they can only report that in the Marxian citadel, where they had won two elections in succession, they succeeded Monday in getting one vote in four. This will be disappointing news at Moscow. Disappointing but also enlightening. Zabolotin and his friends will understand from it what Canadians think of their impudent intermeddling and their "fifth column" agents.

Things Were Worse

Sugar is rationed at a half-pound per person per week. The increase in the retail price of one cent per pound will thus increase the cost of living by about two cents per month per person. To which must be added the additional cost of the extra supplies allowed for putting up fruit in the canning season.

The pre-war average price was seven cents per pound. It is now nine cents. The increase is substantial, though the dollars and cents cost to a family will not be serious.

The present advance is necessary because the producers of raw sugar are demanding more for their products. Sugar being scarce, the producer sets the price and the consumer has to pay. He will be reconciled to paying the extra cent because it is the producer who is getting the benefit. But he will also hope that the producer doesn't make this concession a basis for another hoist.

This far after the end of World War I Canadians were paying 25 cents a pound for sugar. Effective price control, linked with an international arrangement for the equitable distribution of supplies, is thus saving the consumer 16 cents per pound, as against the price he paid in 1920. That is something for which the much-discussed control system and sugar "pool" should get ungrudging credit.

Is Britain Dying?

So much morbid talk has been floating around, particularly in the United States, about Great Britain's loss of prestige and her shrinking international importance that a certain press service queried outstanding Britishers the other day on whether or not they thought Britain was dying.

The reply, naturally, was emphatically in the negative. Such a reply could be expected. But one would think that the best evidence as to the social and political and economic stamina of Britain would be found, not in the testimony of individual people, but in the study of Britain's history.

It must be admitted that Britain's current political condition is not encouraging. The socialist doctrine, applied to the British scene, has withered and corroded everything it has touched. It has made a mess of the Palestine situation. It has bungled the entire labor problem. It seems to be bent, to use Mr. Churchill's phrase, on the gradual liquidation of the British Empire.

But it should be remembered that these are evidences of the weakness of a government, not necessarily of the weakness of a people.

In fact, it is Great Britain's misfortune that she is seen as she appears abroad, not as she is inside.

To determine the degree of her moribundity, therefore, one should not examine the externals, as the world is doing, but examine the steadfast nature of the British character that is to be found unchanged within.

It should be recalled that the British people, in times past, have shown more hope than signs of decay than they show even under Mr. Attlee's clumsy and doctrinaire ministrations.

They survived the decimating Wars of the Roses to lead the world in manufacture. They survived the stifling embrace of Oliver Cromwell to build the greatest empire in man's history.

There is the kind of stuff in the British people that can break through, eventually, even the most enervating war-weariness.

Those who are placing their bets on the death of Britain are taking a very long chance indeed.

They Need Telling

Across Canada the appeal of the Red Cross for funds brought in only two-thirds of the $5,000,000 wanted, during the regular campaign period. New Brunswick, which led all the provinces, was ten per cent short of its objective.

This is not a typical Canadian response to appeals for money with which to carry on works of mercy. The only possible explanation is that the nation has not been made Red Cross "minded"; that not enough people know enough about the peacetime work and program of the organization to enlist their support.

The notion prevails widely, despite all the publicity of recent weeks, that the Red Cross is a wartime organization which is only kept together in peacetime so it will be ready should war come again. Whatever ground there was for this impression in the past, no longer exists. The organization plans to carry on for civilians the same kind of service it carried on for the fighting men, on as wide a scale as money will permit.

For whatever reason, this apparently has not got home to the average Canadian. He willingly extended whatever help was needed to keep the Red Cross functioning in wartime for the benefit of injured and sick soldiers. But he is not doing this when the purpose is to render aid to sick and injured civilians.

There is only one way to account for this. The man on the street and the man on the farm have not become as conscious of the peacetime need as they were of the wartime need. They will have to be told more plainly and more persistently.

Prime Minister Attlee says, "Britain has shown the world she can stand up to terrible odds. We will show the world . . . and move on to better times for all." If he's thinking of the Dunquerque period there were also discipline, singleness of purpose, co-operation, and unity of command.

Marshall's Great Words

BY ELMORE PHILPOTT

It is well known that bad news travels faster than good. The implications of the "Truman doctrine" are far reaching and sobering. But in the long run they may be less important than this historical statement by General George C. Marshall at Moscow:

I realize that the word "democracy" is given many interpretations. To the American government and citizens it has a basic meaning. We believe that human beings have certain inalienable rights, that is, rights which cannot be taken away.

They include the right of every individual to develop his mind and his soul in the ways of his own choice, free from fear and coercion, — provided only that he does not interfere with the rights of others.

To us a society is not democracy if men who respect the rights of their fellow men are not free to express their own beliefs and convictions without fear that they may be snatched away from their home or family.

To us a society is not free if law-abiding citizens live in fear of being denied the right to work, or deprived of life, liberty or the pursuit of happiness.

When the British lords made the reluctant King John sign on the dotted line of the Magna Carta they thought they were winning only the right for nobles like themselves. But as the centuries passed, class after class used the words of Magna Carta to broaden and deepen the rights so won.

When Patrick Henry uttered that famous phrase which became the battle cry of the American Revolution, "Give me liberty or give me death," he did not dream that in another hundred years the grandchildren of the numerous slaves on his slave plantation would be using his cry of revolt against

BUT ALL TRUTH is a two-edged sword.

When the British lords made the reluctant King John sign on the dotted line of the Magna Carta they thought they were winning only the right for nobles like themselves. But as the centuries passed, class after class used the words of Magna Carta to broaden and deepen the rights so won.

THE MARSHALL STATEMENT

More damaging to the flow of trade than tariffs, which may be surmounted, are quotas which can totally dam up the movement of goods. Nations which restrict imports to a fixed volume of goods can stimulate their own exports by the opposite device or subsidies. Both these methods demoralize trade and leave it exposed to the changing whims and sudden interventions of governments.

In general the charter outlaws quantitative restrictions on imports. It provides that nations may retard imports only by tariffs and taxes. But on examination the charter is seen to provide wide exemptions from this rule. Here, as in the case of tariff preferences, the draftsmen were compelled to modify principles to meet practical policies.

HENCE QUOTAS on imports (or exports) are permitted during the postwar transitional period to govern products in short supply, to maintain price control during this time of shortage and to liquidate stocks of goods piled up by governments during the war. These are temporary exemptions but there is a permanent exemption for inter-governmental commodity agreements (as for example, the proposed world wheat agreement) which are authorized by the charter. Much more significant and so far as Canada is concerned, much more disturbing is another exemption inserted by the United States for the obvious purpose of protecting its farm and fishing industries.

Under the clause proposed by the United States, strongly resisted by Canada but finally accepted to satisfy the American government, a nation may apply quantitative restrictions on imports of agricultural or fishery products at any time to make good its own domestic economic policies.

Obviously this provision raises serious problems for Canada since under it the United States could impose quotas on some of the products which Canada chiefly desires to sell to its neighbors. It has to be remembered, however, that while the United States is allowed by the charter to impose such a formidable trade barrier against Canadian farm and fish products—a barrier entirely inconsistent with the whole purpose of Trade Organization for a temporary extension of their subsidy arrangements. Where all international attempts have failed to prevent the development of a "burdensome world surplus" of a primary product the prohibition against subsidies may be temporarily lifted. Finally all signatories agree to avoid any export subsidy which would acquire for them a larger share of world trade in any product than they enjoyed before. They cannot use subsidies under any circumstances to "blast" their way into foreign markets.

All these provisions are likely to conflict with the policies of a nation which embarks, like Britain (and Canada in some measure) on programme of state trading. How the charter proposes to govern state trading will be outlined in the next article.

COMPARISON

Editor, Bulletin: Since I have been reading your paper I always read the articles by Elmore Philpott and Dorothy Thompson. I have been impressed by the contrast of these articles. Mr. Philpott gives me the impression of a fair minded writer, who seems to take other people's ideas into consideration, especially on international politics. Often he criticized the Soviet Union and his points seem founded. But he also gives them credit and tries to show us that we have no reason to distrust them. He also points out many mistakes that our government make and submits his ideas to remedy the situation. On the contrary, all Dorothy Thompson writes is against them. If she happens to criticize some of American or British international policy, she allows them all kinds of excuses. But not for the Soviet Union. Like Hitler did, she raises an anti-Soviet feeling blaming her and American peoples who have socialist ideas for all our domestic troubles.

Veterans' Taxes

BY HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

One of the most acceptable pieces of legislation ever passed by the Alberta government in so far as servicemen are concerned was the "Soldiers' Relief Act," which provided that the home property of any serviceman was exempted from taxation during his period of service. This applied only to properties which were the actual place of residence of a serviceman for at least six months prior to his entering the forces.

Unfortunately a fairly large number of servicemen didn't know about the provisions of this act with the result that they continued to pay taxes. When they did find out about it some of them discovered that the municipalities in which they lived refused to make any refunds, although some municipalities were very good about it.

During the session of the legislature just completed I suggested to the minister of Municipal Affairs, Hon. C. E. Gerhart, that the act should be amended making it mandatory for the municipalities either to pay the veteran back or give him credit for the overpayment. With the sympathetic co-operation which he has always had towards suggestions for helping veterans Mr. Gerhart held the bill and had the necessary amendments drafted into it.

THE AMENDMENT reads: "Where the home property of a soldier has been listed by a municipality on the register of home properties pursuant to section 11, and such property was, prior to the date of listing, entitled to be listed as home property, any taxes levied on or behalf of the soldier (includes sailors and airmen) with respect to the home property which were levied between the first day of January of the year in which the soldier became a soldier and the date of the listing of the home property hereinbefore referred to, shall be repayable, and the municipalities to which such taxes were paid shall, if the aforesaid soldier or his estate makes application for repayment within six months of the coming into force of this amending act, be liable to repay the amount of the taxes to the aforesaid soldier or his estate, and the said amount shall be a debt owing by the municipality to the soldier or his estate, as the case may be."

THIS RATHER LONG sentence, is merely a lawyer's way of saying if you were entitled to exemption and paid taxes before you were aware of it the municipality must pay you back. Another section provides the same concession for dependents of servicemen who have been qualified under the act by the action of a judge.

While not a great number of servicemen are affected by this legislation it will make a lot of difference to those who were unfortunate enough to make payments before they knew they were exempted from taxation and found that their municipality was inclined to stand on a literal interpretation of the act.

Ten Foot Tapestry

U.K. Information Office

All through the war, Miss Janet Barrow, a BBC actress, stitched, she was making a masterpiece, a tapestry of Britain and its people enduring and fighting, told in glowing threads. She sewed at it in air-raid shelters, blacked-out trains, theatrical lodgings and BBC studios. She put in the last stitch at midnight on May 8, the first anniversary of VE-Day; she has seven panels totalling 10 feet in length — a "Bayeux Tapestry" of the Second World War.

Miss Barrow hopes to give it to London — to a restored church or similar building. But, first, it was selected as one of the attractions of the Ideal Home Exhibition which is having a post-war revival in London.

Duck, Boys---Ava Is Talking

By Erskine Johnson
HOLLYWOOD, April 2 (NEA)—Artie Shaw and Mickey Rooney can start blushing.
We've just been talking to their ex-wife, Ava Gardner, that beautiful bunch of everything, right where you want it.
In fact, we're still blushing, after interviewing Ava in bed. (Now don't get excited Mr. Johnson).
AVA SAID SHE didn't feel too well — she looked wonderful in red pajamas—and would I please sit down. Her maid Marie brought me a chair (darn it!), and Ava cozily pulled a sheet up around her neck, smiled sweetly and apologized for her $180-a-month apartment — "It's a terrible joint!"

To luscious Ava, Artie was pedantic, Mickey childish.

—which she rents from Red Skelton.

Ever since seeing Ava in "The Killers," we have been sure she is the logical successor to Jean Harlow. And now M-G-M thinks so too, and she's due for some tremendous ballyhoo as Clark Gable's night-club singer girl-friend in "The Hucksters."

AFTER THAT, WE predict right now, M-G-M will start remaking some of those sizzling old Harlow-Gable pictures, like "Red Dust" and "China Sea," with Ava and Clark. They're dopes if they don't. And if they don't, Louis B. Mayer had better buy back his horses.

But to get back to Ava's ex-husbands, Artie and Mickey.
Artie, as you know is now married to Kathleen ("Forever Amber," Winsor).

When Ava was married to Artie, she said he insisted she read books like "The Life and Times of Thomas Paine."

"HE WANTED to improve my mind," Ava said, "and I suppose he was right, because I had never done much reading. But one day I bought 'Forever Amber' and brought it home. Artie saw it and made me throw it away, saying, 'I don't want you ever to read such trash!'"

Ava dismissed Mickey with: "Being married to him was like being married to a child."

Ava said she had been reluctant to give interviews with the press because they crucified me when I divorced Mickey. They said I was a gold-digger, and that I wanted to further my career and a lot of silly stuff that wasn't true."

AS A MATTER of fact, it wasn't until Ava worked off the M-G-M lot, in "Whistle Stop" and "The Killers," that M-G-M realized she was a potential glamor doll of the Harlow type.

"But," protested Ava, "I'm not a glamor girl. I prefer blue denims and sneakers and old shirts to those peek-a-boo gowns they dream up at the studio."

But there wasn't much dreaming (or material) put into the gown Ava wears in her love scenes with Gable in "The Hucksters." Ava has been in Hollywood for five years, coming here from New York, where she did some modeling for her brother-in-law. Before that she lived on a farm her parents share-cropped near Raleigh, N. C.

"I TOOK A SCREEN test in New York—after someone saw my photograph—and I had such a thick Southern accent nobody could understand me. But they signed me anyway (you have to hear Ava to appreciate her)."

"They asked me: 'Will you concentrate on your career in Hollywood, or will you get married?' I said, 'Oh, my career will come first, naturally.'"

To luscious Ava, Artie was pedantic, Mickey childish.
"So the first thing you know I'm married to Mickey Rooney. Then to Artie Shaw. I was so busy getting married and losing my Southern accent I didn't have time to make any pictures."

"I even turned down roles when I was married to Artie. I was happy. I thought I had given up my career for good."

AVA APOLOGIZED again—this time for the red pajamas she was wearing.

"I should have been glamorous, I suppose, and worn a lacy negligee and a black nightgown."

It was a good thing Ava didn't wear a lacy negligee and a black nightgown.

If she had, we wouldn't be writing this.

We'd be in the French Foreign Legion—trying to forget.

Nose-Print Dog To Thwart Theft

GALVESTON, Tex., April 2.—(BUP)—Something new in identification data has been added at the Galveston police headquarters—a dog's "nose-print."

Miss Dora Mace asked police to noseprint her pedigree cocker spaniel after three attempts were made to steal the pet. A fingerprint card at the local police station bears the following description:

"Blond and white, male with long ears. About 28 inches high and weighs about 30 pounds, name of 'Crackers.'"

Charles E. Bock, police identification expert, explained that dogs' noses have a definite pattern, much like the arrangement of lines and whorls on human fingers.

U.K. Must Await Cattle Imports

LIMERICK, Eire, April 2.—(CP)—Although Britain's food program will call for substantially increased imports of store cattle from Eire, these will not be available in bulk for two or three years, leading exporters said.

Lack of funds and conversion of grasslands to tillage to maintain Eire's bread supply have curtailed exports.

Prepared mustard was first mixed 100 years ago by a woman in Durham, England.

SUGGESTS TRADE: "If you won't keep the Haines cut-off open, then let us do it," says U.S. Senator Warren Magnuson, top right, as Canada allowed the 140-mile road to the Alaska highway to be come impassable during the winter except by dog team. G. Black, Canadian MP, above left, suggested trading the cut-off to the U.S. let of Juneau, who recommended that Canada maintain the cut-off in return the U.S. would main- tain a portion of the Trail to Van- couver highway, part of which passes through Washington.

Trainer Tom Smith's Suspension Is Lifted

NEW YORK, April 2—(AP)—Tom Smith, veteran trainer of the Maine Chance Farm who drew a one-year suspension from racing in 1945 over the stimulation of a horse in his charge, was restored to good standing Tuesday when he was granted a new trainer's license by the Jockey club.

Smith was one of 246 trainers licensed by a committee of the Jockey club and the board of stewards, which also issued permits to 787 owners and 11 jockeys in preparation for the new racing season.

Yesterday's action gave Smith a free hand to operate in all states since the Jockey club controls most of the major tracks in the United States. He had been reinstated earlier this year by the California Racing Board.

Clayton Returns To Mat Ring Here

King Kong Clayton, popular colored heavyweight from Alabama, who thrilled Edmonton fans with his "jumping jack" tactics here in 1938, will bump into Jack "Killer" Dillon, a newcomer to these parts, in the semi-windup of Tommy Tasker's wrestling show here Tuesday night.

The card, which will be featured by the Al "Lord" Mills Tug Carlson contest, will be staged at the Memorial Hall, with Steve Jassul, Edmonton, and Alex Gerke, Wetaskiwin, clashing in the curtain-raiser. Both are middleweights and are capable of providing plenty of action.

CLAYTON HAS QUITE A war record. He went overseas with an entire colored division and only eight of the boys came back. He was wounded in Sicily and crawled six miles on his hands and knees to safety.

Cecil "Tiger" Goldstick, who is match-maker, announced the possibility of a fourth match.

Y Cage Teams Play in Calgary

Y Trollers will play their return game in the Alberta junior basketball final series against North Hill in Calgary on Thursday night.

Trollers took the first here on March 22 by a score of 65-41.

Edmonton Y intermediates also play in Calgary this week, their game with Spring Coulee for the intermediate "B" title being scheduled for Friday.

ARCHIE CLOUSTON is coach of the Y intermediates and members of the team are H. D. Herbert, R. E. Malin, R. S. Harris, Norm Bradshaw, Fred Cramer, Alfred Theiss, J. D. Anderson, B. M. Clarke, Cliff Carlyle and Bill Mayson. Art Warburton is manager of the team.

Zale Scores TKO

KANSAS CITY, Kas., April 2 (AP)—Tony Zale, world middleweight champion, won a technical knockout in one minute and six seconds of the fifth round over lanky Al Timmons of Cleveland in a scheduled non-title fight last night.

KANSAS CITY, April 2 (AP)—Kansas City's powerful forward line of Johnny Harms, Ray Powell and Larry Silvestri proved too much for Fort Worth last night as the Pias-Mors blanked the Rangers 6-0.

in the opening United States Hockey League semi-final best-of-five games playoff series before 3,617 fans.

Silvestri tallied two goals for the winners with Harms and Powell adding one each. Harry Dick and Harry Blade were the other goal-getters.

Greenberg Key Man In Pittsburgh Plans

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 2—(AP)—Big Hank Greenberg is the key man in the Pittsburgh camp where freshman manager Billy Herman is fashioning a home-run-minded ball club from a squad of "interim" players.

"If Hank can play every day," Herman observed, "I know we'll be all right. Right now, I think we are all right and I'll be very much disappointed if we finish in the second division."

GREENBERG HAS been out of the lineup for 10 days due to an elbow ailment and did not leave Monday with the rest of the club for a short swing through the west coast training camps. However, Hank insists he could play if necessary and will be ready for daily duty when the season opens.

"I'd like Brooklyn to win the pennant," said Herman. "If Pete Reiser is sound, they have a pretty good ball club if Pete is able to stay in there. But we'll score more runs than the Dodgers or anybody else."

IT'S A WHOLE new setup in Pittsburgh from the winners down through general manager Roy Hamey to Herman. A thorough house-cleaning job weeded out much dead wood during the winter. New faces abound on the roster, emphasizing a new deal for the Pirate customers.

Greenberg in left field, Ralph Kiner in centre and Jimmy Russell in right should be a formidable power threat in the outfield.

Elbie Fletcher, the lone power-hitting left-hander on the squad, is the first sacker despite efforts by the Dodgers to make a trade for his services. Fletcher appears to have shaken off the effects of a bad season.

BILLY COX, A smooth-fielding, sharp-hitting shortstop, is a fixture as is Frank Gustine at third base.

Second base is the lone question mark with bespectacled Eddie Basinski, Jimmy Bloodworth and Manager Herman the top possibilities. Clyde Klutts is the first-string catcher.

Herman has been happily surprised by his pitching staff which he had been led to believe was strictly seventh place. No final decision will be made until mid-May but a good guess on the regular starters would include Ed Bahr, Preacher Roe, Rip Sewell, Ernie Bonham, Jim Bagby, Nick Strincevich and Kenny Gables.

Caughoo Needs Export License

HOLYHEAD, Anglesey, Wales, April 2—(Reuters)—Caughoo, the little Irish horse who defied all barriers to romp to victory in last Saturday's Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, could not hurdle His Majesty's customs last night.

Instead of being piped ashore by two bands from the boat at Dublin Tuesday, Caughoo was spending the night in a stable borrowed from a railroad company's cart horse because the groom had not yet received the necessary export license. The board of trade said the license was mailed Monday.

Today if there are no further snags, the crack steeplechaser of 1947 will get his welcome in Dublin and will be triumphantly led along O'Connell street to owner J. J. McDowell's jewelry shop.

Webb Will Likely Fight In Sydney

SYDNEY, Australia, April 2—(Reuters)—Danny Webb, Canadian lightweight champion, is almost certain to meet Vic Patrick, champion of Australia, for the Empire championship, the manager of the Sydney stadium, where the fight will take place, said Tuesday. Webb successfully defended his Canadian crown against Dave Castiglione in Montreal Monday night.

The first watch was really a portable clock hung from the gorde by a chain or cord.

Freight Hearings Get 2-Week Hoist

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—Completing six weeks of consecutive sessions with one more in a long series of arguments between opposing counsel, the Board of Transport Commissioners yesterday adjourned until April 9 its inquiry into the railway's application for higher freight rates.

A BATTLE OVER the relevancy and availability of material sought by provincial counsel marked the closing stages of the session, with Col. J. L. Halston, Maritime spokesman, engaging in warm exchanges with railway lawyers over the issue.

Col. Halston asked for more information on the financial operations of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, wholly-owned subsidiary of the CPR, and also pressed urgently for the production of the CPR's 1946 annual report, declaring that in the last 10 years it never had been so late in appearing as this year. So far, the balance sheet and profit-and-loss account have been presented at the inquiry.

C. F. H. CARSON, Railway Association of Canada counsel, and F.C.S. Evans, CPR general counsel, said the full annual report was not in existence yet and they angrily rejected what they termed suggestions that it was being held back.

Cartier Recount To Start Tuesday

MONTREAL, April 2 (CP)—An official recount of votes in Monday's by-election in Cartier will be held by returning officer Morris Wiseman next Tuesday, it was announced last night.

MAURICE HARTT, Liberal, defeated five other candidates in the by-election called to name a successor to jailed Communist Fred Rose.

The recount is expected to take several days with more than 26,000 votes to be checked.

Some reports have said certain polls had more votes than the number of voters on the list. These reports resulted in a declaration by Paul Masse, autonomist and anti-Communist candidate who was runner-up to Mr. Hartt, that he would ask for a judicial recount and for a contestation of the election. In a post-election statement, Mr. Masse claimed 1,500 of his followers had been disfranchised during a revision of the voting lists.

HOWEVER, Mr. Masse said last night that he had abandoned the idea of a judicial recount and contestation because "when I announced my intentions in this respect Monday night, I was under the impression Mr. Hartt's majority was about 700. I was mistaken and I lost by nearly 3,000 votes. A judicial recount could not change the verdict."

Find Briefcase: $11,000 Is Gone

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—The owner of a missing briefcase containing $11,700 in cash and an $800,776 letter of credit had it back today—minus the cash.

John Hagen, president of the City Bank Corp., told police he accidentally left the case in a telephone booth Monday.

The bag was returned by Ferdinand A. Everding, Brooklyn importer, who said he found it when he stepped into the booth. The money was gone, he told police.

Albertans Claim Share of Fortune

CALGARY, April 2 (CP)—Several Calgary and district residents are among the more than 200 claimants to the $800,000,000 fortune of Robert Edwards, who emigrated to the United States from Wales in the 18th century and made a fortune consisting of valuable real estate in New York's business section. Mrs. F. G. Pearson, her children, her mother, Mrs. J. B. Johnston of Hanna and her aunt, Mrs. George Crozier of Victoria, can all trace their ancestry back to Robert Edwards. Mrs. Pearson said the fortune had frequently been discussed and at one time an Edwards' heirs association had been formed in Alberta. Her Uncle Charles Edwards, who died in North Dakota ten years ago was a direct descendant of Robert Edwards.

Soviet Accepts U.N. Compromise

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., April 2 (AP)—Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, accepted part of a French compromise Monday night but refused to vote on a final plan of work for the committees of the United Nations atomic energy commission. The working committee of the commission voted 10-0 with Russia and Poland abstaining to approve the work plan after four hours of argument in a closed committee room.

Report Withdrawal Of Russian Troops

TIENSIN, April 2 (AP)—The Catholic newspaper Social Welfare reported in an unconfirmed dispatch from Mukden, Manchuria, Tuesday that Russian troops were withdrawing south toward Port Arthur from Dairen and Chungchou. The newspaper added, however, that 10,000 Russian troops remained in the area southwest of Chinchow, which is some 40 miles by rail north of Dairen.

This and the following articles are taken from the Book of Knowledge and can be clipped for saving in a reference book.

A PLANT'S STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

(3) Competition in Crowded Areas
In early summer, we see men busy thinning cotton plants with a hoe, destroying several and leaving others. Or we see gardeners thinning out young carrots. There are too many young plants, they crowd one another and dwarf one another. If the farmer or gardener is to get profitable full-grown plants, he must thin them out. Similarly, in wild nature there is natural thinning. The young plants that get a good start elbow out their neighbors. There is ceaseless sifting.

Nature has endowed British roses with prickly spikes as a defence against browsing animals.

But while the sifting is often effected in early life by a great "infantile mortality" of seedlings, there are sheltered and luxurious places where many plants get past the juvenile stages. There is extraordinary crowding and, therefore, great competition for foothold, for light and for air. Such places are sheltered—self-sown woods, tropical jungles, thicket hedgerows, and rich meadows.

What light is shed on the variety of climbing plants when we understand that they are conquerors in a fight! They have remained young and mobile in their stems, or leaf stalks, or tendrils, or some other part of their body, and they have risen on the shoulders of their neighbors to thrive on fresh air and abundant light.

(Copyright 1946, by the Grollier Society Inc. based upon The Book of Knowledge, Distributed by the United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

It is very interesting to think of the different ways in which plants escape from overcrowding and the literal shadow of death. Brambles, with their long shoots and gripping prickles, are scramblers. The ivy is a root-climber, giving off numerous brown roots on the shady side of the lanky stem. Then there are twiners, with stems that encircle the support, as in the case of honeysuckle and dodder. But the artists in the business are the leaf-climbers and the tendril-bearers, where the leaf-stalk, or a specialized sensitive filament, bends round a support. Think of clematis vine, bryony and pea: what masterpieces they are!

We see a new significance in the spiral arrangement of leaves on the stem, for this means that they shadow one another less; in the mosaic of leaves on the horse-chestnut branch, where many leaves make the most of the available light without overlapping. Then, there are the struggles of plants against animals. Some plants have stings or poisons, thorns or spikes, hard skins or unpalatable crystals, which have turned out to be very profitable—indeed, life-saving—in warding off attacks of animals.

Everyone who loves a garden knows that among the worst enemies of plants are the snails and slugs. But there are some plants that snails leave alone, because of hard skins, rough prickles, stiff hairs, poisonous stings, strong odors and other defenses. Thus there are few snails that attack the European plant of the woods called cuckoo-pint, a near relative of our jack-in-the-pulpit; and one good reason for this is that the leaves are crowded with minute sharp crystals which would pierce and irritate the lips of the snail. The struggles of plants are worldwide and many-sided. There are struggles with the physical world; struggles with fellows—other plants in the crowded area; and struggles with foes—hungry and injurious animals. There is struggle for food, for foothold, for light, plant needs. The great fact for plants and animals is the same—that success means struggle.

TOMORROW: How is the Date of Easter Fixed?

Bridge

By William E. McKenney

Today's hand from the world championship Masters individual tournament brings out some good points in the play of the cards. The bidding was normal and even when the dummy went down, declarer did not think the contract was in danger. But with the defense he received, he couldn't make it.

2 ♠	2 ♠	3 ♠	3 ♠
4 ♠	4 ♠	Double	Pass

When the king of hearts held the first trick, North led the king of diamonds. His reasoning was that if he led a low diamond and declarer held the queen and one, there still would be an entry into dummy, and North wanted to kill that entry, before the club suit could be established. He also thought from the bidding that South should have at least the queen of diamonds.

Declarer won the king of diamonds with dummy's ace, led a spade and went right up with the ace, North having marked himself with the king by his double.

Now a heart was ruffed in dummy and a diamond ruffed by declarer, who then attempted to ruff the third heart. But North trumped with the ten spot and later made the ace of clubs and king of trumps, setting the contract.

At another table declarer played a small club from dummy after the second heart was ruffed. South put up the ten. West played the jack and North led it hold.

led another club and again North refused to win, because by holding the ten South was starting an echo to let his partner know where the missing clubs were. By holding off with the ace of clubs until the third round, North was able to keep declarer out of the dummy. This line of defense also defeated the contract.

Announce Cutoff On Grain Subsidy

BRANDON, MAN., April 2 (CP)—Agricultural Minister J. G. Gardiner said here last night that the subsidies paid by the federal government on barley and oats for feeding purposes will be discontinued next Aug. 1. The present subsidy on barley is 25 cents a bushel and on oats 10 cents.

SPEAKING AT a banquet tendered the Manitoba winners in the national barley contest, the federal minister said the only guarantee which would be given farmers for barley from that date to July 15, 1948, is a price of 90 cents a bushel for No. 1 grade feed.

While he was not in a position to say what would happen to ceiling prices on other products, he was able to state that the floor price in eggs will not be lowered but instead probably would be increased in the near future.

MR. GARDINER stressed the fact he had not said anything about ceiling prices after Aug. 1, adding that two factors would still leave a measure of control if ceilings were removed.

One was the fact that ceilings on barley shipped to the United States were imposed by the United States government and probably would not be removed until prices there reached approximately parity with Canadian prices, the second was the fact the United Kingdom would buy all the grain for feed produce which Canada would produce.

New Car Prices Will Not Jump

TORONTO, April 2 (CP)—Removal of price ceilings on automobiles will not mean an increase in prices of new cars, automobile industry officials agreed last night. But used-car dealers throughout Toronto predicted prices of their machines would go up.

AN OFFICIAL of the Ford Motor Company at Windsor said there had been a decrease of $35 on all motor cars manufactured by Ford only 10 days ago and that the decontrols would not affect the prices set at that time. W. A. Wecker, president of General Motors of Canada, Limited, said at Oshawa there definitely would be no increase in prices as a result of the decontrol itself.

Officials of the Chrysler Motor Company said there would be no increase in their prices and though Hudson Motor Company officials could not be reached local dealers did not expect a rise in prices.

Asks Employment For Vet. Guards

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—Major G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC—Nanaimo) said in the Commons Monday that employment should be provided for discharged members of the Veterans Guard. Jumping up after Defence Minister Claxton delivered a farewell and thank you message to the guard—due for disbandment yesterday—Gen. Pearkes charged that "thanks and farewells are not enough." Many of these veterans of two wars were not covered by rehabilitation measures. Some sort of provision must be made for their re-establishment.

SHANAVON, Sask. (CP)—A portrait photographer here for the last 33 years, Mrs. Gladys Preston, has retired with not a single picture of herself.

Mrs. Preston, an amateur painter as well, said she had two portrait photographs made while on holiday at Victoria, B.C., but she sent them to relatives in England.

Auto Black Market Reaches New Peak

OTTAWA, April 2 (CP)—The black market in used cars has reached the point where more second-hand vehicles are being sold undercover than through legitimate channels. Reconstruction Minister Howe said last night in the Commons. Mr. Howe made the statement in explaining the background of the lifting of price ceilings on all motor vehicles, effective today. As for new cars, he said the "efficiency of production" had reached the point where one producer had reduced his price below the ceiling and it appeared that other producers were in the same position. Therefore, ceilings were removed.

Changes Made

Obviously a lone male living with five females is a man who works out some personal psychology or ends up badly beating the side of his head against a convenient wall.

My own psychology involves ready acquiescence to any request, maintaining an aloof, neutral stand on debates and sometimes running briskly away to the garage, a kind of hurricane shelter from domestic storms.

Worked out all right, too, until Annie and Cluny decided to go on the nest. Annie is the dog, Cluny is the cat and they are beyond any reasonable doubt, in that interesting condition.

Personally, I would never have guessed it unless perhaps they had both started knitting little woolen things. Long after the rest of the establishment was aware of their condition I was still mulling that they must be getting too much to eat.

Might not have known until this day if the dog hadn't run after the postman just as I arrived home from work. I selected a large stick and, after cornering her near the kitchen door, prepared to administer punishment. The stick was poised for the blow, when I was aware that the three human females who share my life were standing beside me, wearing looks of scorn and indignation.

"Don't you dare," said my wife. "Oh, you couldn't," said Bee-Bee, our housekeeper.

"Please, please," said my daughter.

This opposition to discipline had never come up before. I was momentarily confused. "Run after postman," I explained bleakly. "What's happened? Somebody left her money?"

"She is about to become a mother," my wife said.

"So is Cluny," my daughter added.

The Reaction

In the past two weeks since I was let in on the secret an old theory of mine has been amply confirmed. This theory is simply that dogs are a more rewarding pet, but cats are a good deal easier on the nerves.

"Cluny," a small, haughty grey cat, is entering on the adventure of motherhood with no apparent foreboding. Her demeanor, in fact, inspired quite a lively discussion between Brown Eyes and myself on the question of a cat's awareness of pregnancy. "Cluny" was taken from her mother at a very tender age. I hold to the theory that she is going to get the surprise of her life when she discovers nature's little joke.

On the other hand, we notice that she has abandoned her usual sleeping place at the foot of the bed and has taken up emergency quarters in a large cardboard box in the basement.

There is no doubt about "Annie." "Annie" knows. And she is playing the role right to the hilt, like the canine Bette Davis she is. Last night she came in to the living room, obviously trying to look petulant and misunderstood, sank before the fire with a great sigh and peered into the blaze, every inch the expectant mother.

"Next thing you know that crazy dog will be wringing its paws," I said irritably.

Woman's World

It is precisely that kind of remark that has temporarily turned the entire establishment against me. The dog has never before spent so much time in the house. I have never before spent so much time in the garage.

A timid suggestion one night that we may be facing a pretty problem in economy with the house crawling with small, hungry animals inspired a 10-minute discourse on the callousness of man. All three of the ladies have taken the stand that this beautiful thing and that they will all see it through together. The Princess has gone so far as to tentatively name an estimated crop of an even dozen pups and kittens. My relations with "Cluny" remain almost the

Young Man Learns "Breaks" Are Limited

A young man learned in court Wednesday that you can run out of "breaks" and chances to go straight and in the end you must pay for your crimes.

IN AN EPISODE in the courtroom, Gilbert Darling, Dawson Creek, received a sentence of nine months imprisonment after his plea of guilty to a charge of being in possession of four $50 Victory Bonds and 30 war savings certificates stolen from George Kov, Banff rooms, last Feb. 23.

With hands clasped on the ledge of the dock the accused pleaded with the magistrate that he had learned a lesson he would never forget. He sounded most sincere until the magistrate reminded him that just recently he had been same, or non-existent, but "Annie," in her orgy of self-glory, has come to view me with what both of us know is a condescending air.

We have been alone together only once since I learned of her condition. I came home to find the house deserted except for "Annie," lying on the chesterfield, hitherto forbidden territory.

"Get down off that chesterfield, you faker," I commanded hoarsely. She raised herself laboriously, and stepped heavily down to the floor. I could see that she was not faking one little bit and a wave of compassion came over me. I scratched her behind the ears. "Never mind, Annie," I said. "I understand." She turned and started to get up on the chesterfield, again. There was an awful row when the girls came home and found her chained in the garage.

Want Divorced Husbands Back

Considering that love is the major interest in most women's lives, it is a pity that they have not some reliable way of testing out their emotions and finding out whether what they felt for a man is the grand passion or merely a passing fancy. Certainly it would save much misery and buckets of tears if there were some gadget, on the order of the lie-detector, that would clarify the sentimental situation for them and let them know just how they stood on the love question.

To the outsider, it would seem that it would be the easiest thing in the world for a girl to tell whether she was in love with a boy or not. One would think she would be bound to know whether she was running a temperature about him and whether she regarded him as a prospective husband or just another date. Apparently, however, such is not always the case and often she is just as confused about whether her heart is set on a certain youth as she is about whether she wants a black hat or a red one.

THERE ISN'T a day that I do not get a tearful letter from a girl who writes me that she diagnosed her symptoms erroneously and said "NO" to Tom, Dick, or Harry when he popped the question to her because she thought she was not in love with him. But, lo and behold, no sooner had she faded out of the picture than the mistaken maiden discovered that she was madly in love with him, and wanted to know how she could get him back.

Nor does age seem to bring wisdom in love, for it is a common thing for a woman, who has been a faithful and devoted wife to a good man for ten or fifteen years, to suddenly realize she erred all along in thinking she loved him. She only thought she loved him.

This inability of so many women to ever get their emotions to tell is the main factor in running up the divorce statistics and brings about some curious complications. For it seems that wives are Indian givers, as children say, and as soon as they get rid of a husband they don't want, they desire him back again.

To this column come many ludicrous, as well as tragic stories of wives who decide that they have fallen out of love with their husbands and badger the poor men into giving them divorces, only to discover that they had made fatal mistakes and that they were romantically in love with their ex-husbands, after all.

AND THE TALE of the wild jealousies and the frantic efforts of these wives who have thrown away good husbands and good homes to try to get them back, and the ruthless tactics they use to break up the new homes their former husbands have established and get them to re-marry them, make as sad a story of women's folly as was ever told.

How, then, since Nature has not provided the feminine sex with any magic talisman by which they can test out their emotions and ascertain whether they are the real thing or phony, can they tell whether what they feel for a man is a passion that will last for a lifetime and survive all the ups and downs of marriage, or whether it is just an illusion that will fade of itself into nothingness? They can't. They are bound to be the helpless victims of chance and change and their imaginations, which are at once their blessing and their curse.

And the only advice one can give them is to warn young girls to look at love with a suspicious eye, and to urge wives to wear blinders.

The rascals are one of the few American animals without a European counterpart.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

This week I am bringing you some records of pupils I have had in class. They may inspire you to improve yourself. It always helps to know what others have accomplished. It makes us understand it is possible to do the same thing ourselves.

This is the record of one pupil, and what she accomplished during eight weeks:

Before	After
Weight—184 pounds	171½ pounds
Bust—41½ inches	38 inches
Waist—33½ inches	30 inches
Abdomen—41½ inches	37 inches
Hips—49 inches	43 inches

This woman dieted and exercised. The loss in pounds was a little slower than usual because she had a low metabolism and was taking thyroid under her doctor's supervision. Needless to say, she was happily taking in the seams of her dresses the last time I saw her!

She was going to continue with the same routine of calorie counting and exercise until she reached her correct weight. I talked with her on the telephone not so long ago and she told me that an uncle came to visit recently, and did not recognize her.

When a woman has lots of weight to lose, she often comes to a discouraging standstill during the long process. If this has happened to you, do not be discouraged. It is a normal part of long reduction and is correlated with the water retention in the body. Just keep on with your diet and exercises, and soon the scales will give you another thrill.

If you would like to have my calorie counting chart, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 "Count your Calories" to Josephine Lowman in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Your Baby and Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

When a baby has been accustomed to drinking milk from a bottle for nine months or more, it isn't surprising that it would be somewhat difficult to transfer her to a cup. From the first, orange juice and water are offered from a cup and drinking from this becomes the expected thing to do.

Ms. G. P. wonders why her little girl will drink all water and juices from a cup but won't accept milk from it. She is nine months old.

The above is the reason. It is just habit and the way to encourage her to drink milk from a cup is to give her a small portion (two or three tablespoons) by cup at the beginning of each feeding, and then finish with the bottle.

Then you can pursue that course and increase the amount by cup and decrease it by bottle, and eventually there will be nothing to take from the bottle. You may find that this weaning process may have to be continued for two or three months, but once the child finds it agreeable to drink from a cup, the bottle will be abandoned without emotion.

It may be that you will have better luck if you give those few tablespoons, or ounces, at the end of the meal, or during the middle of the meal, instead of at the beginning. Hungry babies are often impatient until they begin to eat and slowing them up while they drink from a cup makes them antagonistic to it. But if they get some milk from a cup at each meal it isn't important at what time during the meal they get it.

It isn't necessary to continue milk by bottle indefinitely just because baby gets more milk that way. Add milk to the diet in the form of custards, junkets, cereal and milk puddings, with the egg, with the cereal, as cottage cheese, softened with milk and you'll be surprised how much milk can be used in those ways, leaving less to be given by cup.

Mrs. S. H.: Raw starch is not as easily digested as cooked starch and your macaroni and oats should be well cooked. You may give the children slender strips of raw carrot, turnip or potato or cabbage uncooked and satisfy their desire for crisp and crackly foods with potato chips or ready-cooked cereals.

City Woman Starts Shopping Service for the Northwest

By KAY FORD

Everything from nylon stockings to a bulldozer is purchased by Mrs. Winnifred M. Brewster, 10217 149 street, one of the first personal shoppers to service the Northwest Territories. Her service is known as the Northwest Territories Personal Shopping Service and is operated from her home.

The blue-eyed, fair-haired matron has two sons, Peter, 11-year old, and Rod, nine. Her husband is mining at Yellowknife. Mrs. Brewster has not yet been to Yellowknife but hopes to visit there in the summer.

MARRIED IN Winnipeg 15 years ago, the couple lived four years in Goldfields, Sask., where Mrs. Brewster worked for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. Many friends met in Goldfields are living in Yellowknife and write asking Mrs. Brewster to shop for them.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Brewster worked for the Eastman Kodak Company in Winnipeg and during the war, worked as an aircraft welder at Aircraft Repair here.

She started the service a month ago, and receives four or five requests a day for articles obtainable in the north.

MRS. BREWSTER started her service with the idea of shopping for women only but she has had several requests from the men in the mining camps in the north and feels her service can be extended to the men too.

She hopes in a year's time to employ two girls to assist her because she thinks the north country will boom. She would like also to shop for the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals stationed in the north and in time hopes to service all the towns between here and Aklavik.

Articles she has been asked to purchase include an outboard motor, knitting wools, children's clothing and cosmetics.

Colds are dangerous — and in the case of children, the younger the child the more dangerous the cold.

Gwen Hunt Is Honored

Complimenting Miss Gwen Hunt whose marriage to Phillip Knowles takes place Easter Monday afternoon, the staff of the mines branch of the provincial government entertained at a party at Miss Hunt's home recently, when John Crawford, chief inspector of the branch presented the bride-elect with a mahogany coffee table and an electric toaster from the guests.

Mrs. Lyle Brown entertained at the tea hour at her home recently when guests were the girls from the department of lands and mines. Miss Hunt was presented with a gift of enamel china.

Friday, Miss May Moran and her brother, W. C. Moran will entertain the wedding party at a luncheon at the Macdonald hotel for Miss Hunt and Mr. Knowles.

China is one of the foremost coal countries in the world with reserves estimated at 243,670,000,000 tons.

Club Reports On Activities

At an executive meeting of the Ladies Kiwanis Club held at the home of Mrs. Robert E. Emery Tuesday afternoon it was reported that the club began in April, 1931 when Charles E. Garret, president of the Kiwanis Club at that time, called a meeting at his home, of Kiwanis wives, to start such an organization. Mrs. Emery was elected president and the club began activities immediately.

The first work was to replenish the library at the Kiwanis Home, decorate the children's playroom, and provide new curtains and bedspreads. This work has been a continuous activity of the club.

Of the original members, Mrs. Emery and Mrs. W. G. Strachan are still active members with Mrs. Emery holding the record for attendance since she did not miss one meeting for the first ten years.

THERE HAS been a steady increase in membership. It was reported. Throughout this whole period the committee has co-operated with the home. Members have made many contributions including $200 to the Lord Mayor of London Fund, a continuous contribution to the Red Cross Society, cigarettes to veterans and many other contributions.

Throughout the war a group of women gathered at the home of Mrs. E. F. McFarvey once a week to make bundles for Britain and Russia. To show that the bundles were appreciated in Britain, members received a plaque from Lady Reading, who headed the Women's Voluntary Services of Civil Defence.

At present members are contributing to the support of a Czechoslovakian displaced child.

Next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. P. A. Dow, 10035 113 street, April 21 at 3 p.m.

Tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Gangway Farewells Repeat Performance

CAPTOWN, March (CP).—When the Cape Town Castle was about to sail recently, a young woman passenger discovered at the bottom of the gangway that her escort had no permit to go on board.

"Well," she said, "This is goodbye, darling."

"Yes, darling, this is goodbye," he answered.

Behind them stood a large crowd, waiting to go on board.

"Hurry up," said one man, "I want to go up and see my daughter."

The two had a long farewell kiss, to the accompaniment of whistles and shouts from passengers on deck.

Some time later passengers going down the gangway found themselves held up by the same young woman going through the same performance—with another escort.

More Twins Born In North Europe

EDINBURGH, (Reuter).—Polytocies—incidences of multiple birth—is more common among women of northwestern Europe than those in the southeast, says Dr. F. E. Crew, professor of public health and social medicine at the University of Edinburgh.

In Belgium, Finland, and Denmark the percentage of twins exceeds 1.5 but is only about one in Bulgaria, Hungary and Italy and less than one percent in Greece.

He wrote in an article in the medical journal, The Practitioner.

"Nothing would be easier than to conclude that this difference is to be explained by reference to ethnic or climatic conditions," wrote the professor, "but the position of Scotland—where the percentage of twins is lower than in Bulgaria—makes such reasoning hazardous."

During 1946 the increase in population of Stockholm was 10,737.

Britain Finds Difficulty In Popular Flight Program

LONDON, (NANA) — During the coming year Britain can be expected to tackle the subject of private flying from two important angles. One concerns the revival of light aircraft clubs which formerly received financial assistance from the government but since the war have had none. The other is the question of raising the standards of skill and training required of those holding the amateur pilot's license. The two matters are related for if the license standards are raised to high few people in Britain can afford to learn. At present the cost of learning to fly is high and the qualifications for the amateur's license are low. Flying instruction costs $12 to $14 an hour but the pupil gets his license after three hours solo and a few simple tests.

Recommendations put forward by the personnel licensing division of the international civil aviation organization would require the pupil to do 40 hours of dual and solo flying, besides three hours of cross-country flying, and two landings away from home before he could get his amateur's license. That license would be of limited character and would not allow him to fly in poor visibility. For that class of flying he would need to have flown 150 hours and have had training in instrument flying.

Would be slow
If Britain by her membership of the civil aviation organization were obliged to accept these recommendations for the flying club movement would suffer a heavy blow. The cost of the limited license would be in the neighborhood of $480 as against about half that sum at present. Considerations of this kind are being explained to the civil aviation organization in Montreal by the secretary-general of the Royal Aero club. Before Britain could reasonably put such recommendations into effect, she would be obliged to find some way of cheapening the cost of flying training and the cost of solo flying.

Cheaper aircraft would help the movement. There has been some hope that the new Nuffield 100 h. p. aero-engine might ultimately be marketed at about $800, but that would depend on finding a market for an initial batch of at least 1,000.

As the flying clubs stand at this moment, there is no prospect of their being able to afford 1,000 new aircraft, nor are there likely to be enough people willing to buy the hundreds of training aircraft left over at about $3,200 each. Some sale might be found for them in Australia and South Africa. If a scheme can be worked out whereby an attractive and safe type can be produced at about $3,200, there would be a case for proposing that Britain's government should back an order for 1,000.

Cost is Problem
Before the new pilot regulations are put into force something cheaper still will be needed. Most pupils become skilled enough to make their first solo flight after 12 to 16 hours of dual instruction. Under the new rules these pupils will have to do more than 20 hours' additional flying before they can get the limited good-weather license. If there is a suitable small single-seater for this class of flying, they should be able to save a considerable sum on the cost of getting that license.

There were aircraft of this type in Britain before the war. Some were powered gliders. They used automobile engines converted to drive aircraft. They carried no airworthiness certificates and they were restricted to an area near their home airfields. Since the war, aircraft of this class have not been allowed to fly in Britain.

The question is whether low-powered single-seat aircraft can be produced at $1,600 or $2,000 each for student pilots.

Here again the question hinges largely on the engine. Without some relaxation of British airworthiness standards there seems no prospect of making engines at much less than $12 per h.p. unless there are orders for extremely large numbers. Bound though most of the nations will be to standards laid down by the civil aviation organization, some means of producing light aircraft cheaply will have to be found by those countries which need for various reasons to encourage their private flying movements; and the manifest desire of the British government to do something in this direction may lead to the appearance of an important new class of small aircraft in Europe.

Britain invented the flying club and the British government took the movement under its wing with direct subsidies from 1924 onwards. The growth of commercial air transport and the need for more stringent safety measures on the air routes must lead to some raising of the standards of skill and experience among private pilots, yet Britain would suffer if there were no nursery in which professional pilots of the future could try themselves out. The flying clubs provide that opportunity.

Few Picking Mate Follow Parents

By Arthur J. Snider
CHICAGO, (GDN) — The belief among many psychologists that a man picks a wife who resembles his mother and a woman chooses a husband like her father is not borne out at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Anselm Strauss, who studied 375 engaged and newly-married persons on the campus, concludes the theory is over-rated.

Not everyone wants "a girl just like the girl that married dear old dad," he found. Only a few men and women, he discovered, choose mates because they physically resemble the opposite-sex parent.

Likewise, the relationship between the mate's opinions and beliefs and those of the subject's parent proved to be unimportant.

There was some tie-up, however, in the matter of personality and temperament. One woman complained she had never been able to find companionship with her father," Dr. Strauss said. "What she admired most in her marriage partner was the very thing her father lacked."

"Another woman reacted violently against her father's treatment of her and her choice of mate seemed to be in part an expression of that reaction."

"Antagonism and emotional reaction against both parents may be a factor in influencing marital choice. One woman's husband appeared to be virtually a symbol of the woman's revolt against her parents."

Far from choosing parent-image, a man or woman may want nothing to do with anyone who resembles a parent, Dr. Strauss concludes. (Chicago Daily News)

Booklet to List North Road Rules

Due to overwhelming demand by the public for information regarding travel regulations on the Alaska highway, a new booklet is being prepared by the AMA and will be available soon. Dr. M. A. McIntyre announced Tuesday at a luncheon of the Alberta Motor Association, held in the Club Roosevelt, C. W. Grant K.C., was chairman.

IN A RECENT survey of gasoline dealers, conducted by Dr. G. J. Hope, president of the association, it was stated that night selling of gasoline was not profitable. Mr. Hope has suggested that night sales be allowed until 10 p.m., and that no hardships would be felt between 10 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Despite poor conditions of roads and postponing of license plate sales from March 17 to March 26, AMA membership for March showed an increase of 20 members over the same period of last year.

The film industry, starting a little more than 30 years ago, now occupies eighth place among the industries of India.

Lift Traffic Ban On Main Highways

Effective 7 a.m. Wednesday, April 2, all main and secondary highways were to open to bus traffic and to trucks, tractors and trailers carrying half loads. It was announced Tuesday by the Highway Traffic Board. Bans on all municipal and improvement district highways are still in effect, except where cancelled by local officials or the Highway Traffic Board.

Dismiss Jury In Boyer Trial

MONTREAL, April 2—(CP)—A new trial for Dr. Raymond Boyer, was made necessary when a King's Bench Court jury failed Monday night to agree on the verdict in a trial of the wealthy Montreal scientist charged with conspiracy to communicate information unlawfully to Russia. Mr. Justice Wilfred Laurier dismissed the jury when the foreman reported that no agreement had been reached. Date of a new trial for Dr. Boyer, last of 38 Canadians charged in connection with last year's espionage activities, was set "pro forma" for April 17.

Principles Are Explained

Alberta Auto Indemnity Act Possesses Varied Features

What does Alberta's new "Auto-mobile Indemnity Act" mean? TO THE MOTORIST, its immediate effect is a rise in the price of his license plate by $1.

If he is involved in an accident, the cost of which is estimated to be greater than $25, it means suspension of his driver's license.

If after court action he has been found liable for the accident, his property may be seized by due legal procedure, in an amount sufficient to pay any judgment against him.

The suspended driver's license may be returned if it is found that the only damage done was to the driver himself, or if he can give proof of financial responsibility, either personal or in the form of an auto insurance.

It is pointed out by officials that many of these provisions are already on the statute books of the province.

IF THE LICENSE has been suspended for a year and the holder of it has not acknowledged his responsibility for the accident by payment of all or part of the damages, has not been hailed into court as a result of it, is not required to give proof of financial responsibility, or has been cleared by court action, it may be renewed or a new license issued to him.

The security required to be given shall not in any case exceed $10,000, no matter how many people have been killed or injured, and a limit of $5,000 is set in the case of injury or death of one person.

TO A PERSON injured in a motor accident the act provides for the payment of hospital expenses from the Unsatisfied Judgment fund set up from the extra $1 collected for license plates. This amount may be collected by the superintendent of insurance who is charged with the control of the fund from the person whose negligence caused the accident.

In case of an accident resulting in injury or death which has been taken to court, where judgment is found in favor of the victim and it is found that the assets of the motorist after seizure and sale are insufficient to pay the costs of the judgment or if he has no assets, the amount of the judgment may be paid, after court order from the "Unsatisfied Judgment Fund."

AGAIN, THE MOTORIST is required to repay to the fund the amount expended, before he can get his driver's license again.

The new act provides that in any case where there is not enough money in the fund to satisfy all judgments against it, the money shall be obtained from the general revenue of the province.

Where an injury results from a hit and run accident and the person responsible can not be identified, the victim will still enter suit against a "nominal defendant" in this case the superintendent of insurance and judgment obtained, payable from the fund.

Pioneer Engineer Is Dead in City

First locomotive engineer on the Northern Alberta Railways and first president of Lodge 864 of the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, died in Edmonton Monday.

HE WAS J. P. BROWN, 74 years of age, whose residence was at 9905 77 avenue.

Mr. Brown was born in Fairbault, Minnesota, and came west with a railway survey gang in 1894. While in the state of Washington he became a railway fireman and eventually an engineer. He followed the "trail of '97" into the Yukon in search of gold and remained in the north for three years.

Following his northern experiences he went to Mexico and worked as an engineer on the Mexican State Railway, which he left in 1911. After a brief stay in Idaho he again came to Canada.

Here he was employed by Northern Alberta Railways, after construction, becoming the first engineer for the road. He remained with the company until 1938 when he was retired. He is survived by Mrs. Brown and three sisters.

Resisting strong pressure from many sources, the government increased the compulsory education age from 14 to 16, carrying out on schedule the principal dream of the late education minister, Ellen Wilkinson.

Job Insurance Plan Explained

"Unemployment insurance in Canada is still in its juvenile state," according to T. Begg, district insurance officer, Unemployment Insurance Commission who spoke at a Gyro luncheon in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday.

IT WAS NOT TILL 1940, he pointed out, that Canada had any national insurance legislation. The first social insurance in Canada was the old age pension adopted in 1926. In 1929-30, the provinces were approached in regard to national unemployment insurance, and in 1935 a bill was passed establishing the unemployment scheme. On August 7, 1940, the bill went into effect.

Mr. Begg went on to explain purposes of the national employment offices across Canada. He said subsidiaries of the head office were five regional offices and smaller

Youth Tosses $1,065 in Sewer

OTTAWA, April 2—(CP)—Police thought it might be an April Fool joke when a Montreal youth told them he had thrown his money in a sewer—but they found it wasn't and they found the money in the sewer—all $1,065 of it.

The unidentified youth, a veteran of six years army service overseas, came to police headquarters looking pale and ill and asked for lodging. When he told his story of the money police had him lead them to the sewer where he said he had thrown it.

Peering down the dark hole a detective saw a torn five dollar bill. A rake was procured and up came the money, soggy

Britain Intensifies Deserter Round-Up

LONDON, April 2—(CP)—Britain's armed services Tuesday intensified their drive to round up 12,000 deserters still at large in the United Kingdom after a "leniency period" ended at midnight last night. Some deserters celebrated their last hours of freedom with parties and then reported at police stations or recruiting offices with girl or men friends who waved boisterous goodbyes. Those who came in before the deadline were promised sympathetic treatment when punishment was dispensed.

He gave police no reason for his action.

Find Stonehenge 31 Centuries Old

LONDON, (ONA)—British archaeologists are never happier than when they discover a monument is even older than they had suspected. Accordingly, there is considerable joy in their ranks now that they have found the celebrated British monument, Stonehenge, goes back many hundreds of years farther than most laymen had thought.

As a result of intensive work before and since the Second World War, it has been determined the weird collection of stones on Salisbury Plain, goes back to about 1200 B.C.—which is old, even for England.

The news is a bit disconcerting to romantic novelists who have always pictured cowed and gaunt Druidic monks revolving solemnly in some ancient rite before the mightily and inscrutable stones. For cold facts now tell us the Druids were the Stonehenge tenants only in a relatively recent time, about 200 B.C. And that is 1,000 years too late for the streamlined archaeologists of today.

Spokesman for the latest discoveries is Prof. Stuart Piggott. The facts as voiced by him add up like this:

On the site of Stonehenge a group of invaders from Europe, known in archaeological circles as the "Beaker people," raised a sanctuary or temple consisting of a circular ditch enclosing a circle of wooden uprights. (You can see the postholes today.) That would be very long ago—say between 1900 and 2000 B.C.

After a few hundred years, the old place began to look a bit run down, as even the best religious edifices will. In the meantime, the Beaker people prospered, established trade-routes, and imperceptibly from the Stone Age, through the Copper Age and into the Bronze Age, and presumably one day one of them said to another: "It strikes me that old place of ours down Salisbury way needs a little smartening up."

So, putting aside their work on arrowheads and bronze gadgets, the public-spirited Beaker people rallied around, possibly raised a subscription, ripped out the decaying old wooden uprights (they may have been similar to totem poles), and replaced the entire business with up-to-date dressed stone.

It was not until a thousand years later the Druids invaded the place—in the Iron Age which succeeded the Bronze Age. At least that's the way Prof. Piggott and his colleagues look at it.

Burn Up Relic Of German Glory

By Joachim Joesten
(North American Newspaper Alliance)
NEW YORK, (NANA)—Shivering Berliners, foraging for firewood in the environs of the city, recently made an extraordinary find, reports the new Berlin afternoon paper Berlin Am Mittag. Among the few remaining stubs of what had once been a forest, they found a huge head over five feet tall.

It was no human skull but the head of a once famous statue, the "Iron Hindenburg," of First Great War days. The head of the "Iron Man" was solid wood and the foragers promptly chopped it up and lugged the pieces home to their stoves. It was the end of one of the biggest—and most tasteless—statues ever built.

The "Iron Hindenburg" was the product of a war-bond drive sponsored by the imperial government in 1916. It was a gigantic statue of Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, made of alder wood; eighty sculptors labored for four weeks on the figure, using up 40,000 pounds of wood.

After erection of the statue on the Koenigsplatz in Berlin, the public was invited to buy nails. These were hammered into the body of the wooden giant, thus converting him into an iron man. More than 1,500,000 nails, weighing 60,000 pounds, were driven into the "Iron Hindenburg's" body by bond buyers. After the 1918 revolution, the statue was removed and the torso was chopped up. The head which hadn't been nailed, was saved by German nationalists as a symbol of past glory.

Discover Vikings' Early China Link

NEW YORK, (NANA)—The Vikings were doing business with China six centuries before Marco Polo "discovered" that land, 27 runic stones found in the ruins of Birka, Sweden's earliest known capital, now show. The antique inscriptions also solve the mystery of the vanished city of Saerikland, known only in Scandinavian lore, and the riddle of how the Vikings had silk.

The discovery was announced by Prof. T. J. Arnes to a meeting of the Swedish Archaeological society, reported in Svenska Dagbladet of Stockholm.

As long ago as the eighth century A.D., Prof. Arnes declared, Swedish vikings had established a trade route to northern Persia. There, they met Chinese caravans with silk from the far east at a city which the Gothic runes called Saerikland (which Arnes identifies as vanished Serikon, founded during Alexander the Great's conquest of Persia in the fourth century B.C. on the southern shores of the Caspian sea).

One of the runic stones describes a voyage to Saerikland by a chieftain of royal blood called Ingar. He is asserted to be none other than Prince Igor of Russia, son of Rurik the Swede, ninth-century conqueror of the Slavs and founder of modern Russia. His Gothic name was also Ingar, though his Slavic name is best known today, thanks to Moussorgsky's opera, "Prince Igor."

The discoveries also clear up another mystery—the enigma of early Norwegian churches (Stavekirke) whose shape most closely resembles a pagoda.

"Humanity demands that these men be sent home as soon as possible," declared a British radio commentator—referring to German prisoners of war, some of whom have not been home in two years.
